Mayor Introduces Mr. and Mrs. Linden, Honored Guests of the Evening, and Various Speakers Bestow Congratulations—W. Prest Selected as President for Current Year—Secretary Gives Interesting Report

Mr. and Mrs. Linden were honored guests at the annual meeting of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade at noon on Monday last. Considering the inclemency of the weather, there was a very good representative meeting. After the excellent meal had been disposed of, President Ballhorn asked Secretary Godfrey Baker to give a resume of the work done by the Board during the past year. A complete report is found elsewhere in this issue. The financial statement showed that the total receipts were $372.58, while the expenditure was $344.66, leaving a balance in the bank of $27.92.

The nomination committee then recommended that the following be the officers of the Board for the ensuing year, namely: President, W. Prest; Vice-President, V. E. Thompson; Council: H. J. Montgomery, H. W. Wright, Richard Ballhorn, B. S. Wallis, C. H. Russell, E. A. Reynolds and J. B. Coburn.

President Ballhorn then retired from the chair, after thanking the members for the hearty co-operation and support which was given him the same hearty assistance be given to his successor.

Mr. Prest in taking the President's chair, expressed his great appreciation for the great honor conferred on him, and hoped that the members of the Board could unite and assist in doing even greater things than had been achieved in the past years.

Mr. Chas. Boyer then rendered a solo which was greatly enjoyed, Miss Marie Robinson being the accompanist.

In introducing the honored guests of the occasion, Mayor Montgomery stated that Mr. Linden was born in Sweden, and Mrs. Linden came from Finland. Mr. Linden came to the United States in 1893, but only farmed there for two years, and in 1895 came to the Wetaskiwin district, and selected the land at Crooked Lake, which he now occupies, and the following year the family joined him. Mr. Linden now owns nearly 900 acres in the Crooked Lake district, of which 675 acres are under cultivation. In 1928 he sowed the 43 bushels on 24 acres and he harvested a yield of 2250 bushels.

W. Barry, President-elect of the Wetaskiwin Kiwanis Club, congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Linden on their wonderful success, and trusted they would continue to bring honors to Wetaskiwin, the Province of Alberta, and the Dominion of Canada, by attaining still greater success in the grain competitions of the world. The congratulations of the Women's Institute were also extended to the honored guests by Mr. Prest.

H. J. Stephens, Field Crops Commissioner for Alberta, was the next speaker, and he referred to being in Wetaskiwin on a previous occasion, when he joined in honoring Gustave Elger, the wheat champion and on this occasion he was glad to pay homage to Mr. and Mrs. Linden who brought distinction to this community as well as to the Dominion of Canada. In referring to Mrs. Linden's exhibit at Chicago, Mr. Stephens said he had inside information that it took hours for the judges to decide whether Mrs. Linden's exhibit would be placed first or second. This is a splendid achievement in winning from competitors throughout the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa and other countries. He was confident that with the determination shown by Mr. and Mrs. Linden, that next year they would clean up at both the Toronto and Chicago exhibitions. In conclusion, Mr. Stephens said that Mr. Linden had done something that had

AGED ALBERTA PENSIONERS REACH NUMBER OF 1538

Edmonton, Jan. 4.—Since August 1 last, when the Alberta Old Age Pension Act was proclaimed and brought into effect, a total of 1538 pension claims have been paid, according to figures compiled.

The average pension cheque sent out is $18 a month.

There are still a large number of claims to be dealt with, but delay in settling them has not been due to the lack of organization facilities, but in the tardiness of the applicants in supplying necessary information.

Records received from other provinces where old age pensions are in effect reveal the fact that nearly 50 per cent of residents more than 70 years of age apply for pensions.

Alberta has 3300 residents more than 70 years of age and should 50 per cent of this number apply, then the total will be close to 5,000.

There are 1,000 applications for pension which stand a good chance of being completed and added to the roll within the next three months. Applicants are being received at the rate of 40 a week.

At the last session of the Legislature a vote of $330,000 was passed to carry on Old Age Pensions for the year. Under complementary legislation enacted by the Dominion a similar appropriation was voted by Parliament, so that, for the year, a total of $660,000 was available.

The Norwegian Lutheran Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. A. Arnesen on Friday, January 10th, at 8 p.m.

Miss Ethel Sharlow of Wetaskiwin, was successful in winning a prize in the Sleigh Contest conducted by the Edmonton Journal recently. Approximately 4,000 entries were received, and Miss Sharlow was the only winner from Wetaskiwin.

Fire completely destroyed the residence and contents of Mr. Muckle, east of the railway track early Thursday morning, the brigade being called about 3:45. The cause is unknown and the fire had gained such a start that nothing could be saved. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

HOSPITAL LADIES' AID ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The Hospital Ladies' Aid met in the nurses' sitting room on Tuesday, Jan. 7th, with the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. H. C. R. Walker. Vice-President—Mrs. Liversidge. Treasurer—Mrs. W. Dietz. Secretary—Mrs. H. E. Chalmers.

Directors—Messrs. Howatt, Elliott, Moore and A. Ellis.

It was decided that the Aid assume responsibility in future for all linen, linen supplies, mending, etc., in connection with the hospital, as the year's supply amounts to a considerable sum.

THINGS TO EXPECT IN PRESENT YEAR

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—Lighter rainfall, reduced crops, better radio reception, greater danger from forest fires, fewer electrical storms, increased production. These are some of the consequences expected in 1930 from a diminution in the strength of ultra-violet rays from the sun.

Dr. Ralph E. Delury, of the Dominion Observatory, a distinguished Canadian astronomer, looks for a lessening of the sun's ultra-violet rays for the next four or five years. While hesitating to make definite predictions on account of the vagaries of the sun's activities, deductions from a long series of investigations led him to believe that there will be a reduction in rainfall, with the many spots which that entails.

The effect of ultra-violet rays on rainfall has been definitely established, Dr. Delury states. Ultra-violet rays are strongest when sun spots are largest and most frequent.

The 11-year cycle for sun spots reached its peak in 1923 and in 1929 there was another period of great activity. The next five years should see a gradual decrease in these phenomena.

The number of Alberta registrations for the year is approximately 10,000 in excess of 1927 and nearly 25,000 greater than in 1926.

The height of ignorance is buying two neckties just alike.

Weddings

UCHYTIL—STRAND

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church manse on Thursday evening, January 2nd, when Miss Mary Eleanor Strand was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Uchytill, the Rev. A. L. Elliott officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Uchytill will reside in Wetaskiwin.

BELLER—DOUPE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Manse, Wetaskiwin, on Wednesday, January 1, 1930, at 4 p.m., when Adelaide Susanna Doupe, youngest daughter of Mrs. Amos Doupe of Cherry Grove, Wetaskiwin, was united in marriage with Jesse Harold Beller, of Whitefish, Montana.

The bride was married in her travelling suit and was very beautiful. She was attended by Mrs. Beller, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Albert L. Beller. Rev. A. L. Elliott performed the ceremony in the presence of a small group of family friends, including the bride's mother.

The wedding party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Beller, where a very dainty and sumptuous wedding dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Beller left on Thursday morning for their home in Montana.

MCCULLOUGH—MCFADDEN

A very pretty wedding took place in Lacombe on December 23rd, at the home of the bride's parents, when Mattie Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McCadden, became the bride of Donald V. McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McCullough of Blanton.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of pale pink satin and georgette with a bandage of brilliant and silver ribbon about her hair. She carried a beautiful bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret McCadden, who was dressed in a gown of pale yellow georgette and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was supported by Mr. Hugh McCadden, eldest brother of the bride. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, the Rev. Mr. McCadden, who was dressed in a suit of dark blue and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The ceremony took place at 2 p.m. The bride and groom were given away by Mr. Wm. Berman, head gardener of the Experimental Farm at Lacombe, special attention being given to a beautiful flower with a background of spruce under which the ceremony took place.

After the wedding about 40 guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper. The bride table was decorated in pink and white, the centre of which was occupied by a gorgeous wedding cake.

The bride chose as her travelling costume a wine-colored fur cape dress with hat of dull gold and a handsome black fur coat. The happy couple left on the evening train for Edmonton amid showers of rice and confetti and the music of bells. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents, showing the esteem in which both the bride and groom are held. They took a host of good wishes from their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough will reside at Wetaskiwin, where Mr. McCullough is engaged as principal of the High School.

PREMIER KING NOT DEFINITE ABOUT CRERAR

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—A report that Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of railways and canals, would also become minister of immigration on his return to parliament, was referred to Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Mr. King replied: "I have made no announcement of the kind. It is just possible that Mr. Crerar may be made acting minister of immigration in addition to being minister of railways, after he has been returned to parliament. This might occur should the portfolio of immigration and colonization not be filled meanwhile, and Mr. Motherwell not be well enough to resume his duties as minister of agriculture. As Mr. Stewart is at present acting minister of immigration, it is probable that Mr. Crerar will be making his own office as minister of the interior, he has a rather heavy task."

COMPENSATION FUND FIGURES ARE PUBLISHED

Edmonton, Jan. 4.—During 1929 workmen's compensation was paid on 14,899 accident cases, according to figures made public on Friday by Alex Ross, chairman of the board administering the fund. This is an excess over the 1928 total, which was 13,909.

Speaking in regard to these figures, Mr. Ross stated that a casual glance at statistics which for 1929 were as yet incomplete, indicated that there was a slight drop in accident in mining operations but that there was a considerable increase in the amount of building accidents throughout the province.

The Christmas Cheer Committee reported that there were considerably more calls for Christmas Cheer work, and generous parcels of candies, toys, and books, and where needed, stockings, underwear, toques, mitts, sweaters, etc., were sent to over two hundred children. The Kiwanis Club took care of the candies, nuts, toys, etc., and the other purchases amounted to $140.94.

Thanks are tendered to Abousaffy & Sons, Brody's, The Star Store, and Red & White, for supplying goods at cost, which enabled the committee to get sufficient to take care of the need. United Church Ladies' Aid Makes Presentation to Retiring President

The Ladies' Aid of First United Church held their annual meeting on Wednesday, January 8th. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. J. Vickers.

1st Vice-President—Mrs. A. R. Dickson.

2nd Vice-President—Mrs. T. B. Stevenson.

Secretary—Mrs. V. C. French.

Treasurer—Mrs. H. Finch.

At the close of the meeting, the retiring president, Mrs. George Wallace was made the recipient of a handsome gift—a pair of Sheffield silver candlesticks and a bon-bon dish, Mrs. French giving the address and Mrs. Finch making the presentation. The address was as follows:

"We, the members of the Ladies' Aid, are unanimous in our desire to express to you our deep regret at losing you as President. At the same time we wish to tell you how very much we have appreciated your leadership, since Union. You have taken the two organizations, the Presbyterian and the Methodist, and have welded them together, so that the work has been carried on harmoniously and without the slightest friction. We all feel that no one of us could have filled the chair so ably, and aided us over such a difficult crisis so capably, as you have done.

You have passed the supreme test of leadership in that in our meetings you have always given plenty of opportunity for expression of opinion and a chance to volunteer our services. The refinements of government in your hands have never seemed intrusive to us, for in all our work together, you have been our friend and counsellor, always ready to give us the benefit of your good judgment and just as ready to do your share of the work in every undertaking.

"We could not let this occasion pass without giving tangible evidence of our sincere regard for you, and we ask you to accept this gift, and when you use it may you recall the words of that great philosopher Cicero, 'The remembrance of past labors is agreeable.'"

What jumps out of reach quicker than a promising future?

VAST STOREHOUSE OF RICHES
GIVEN BACK TO ALBERTA

Wealth as yet unknown and un-computed is contained in the natural resources which will be returned to Alberta through the agreement signed at Ottawa early in December, between the dominion and provincial governments. These constitute a vast storehouse of riches, almost staggering in their potentialities.

An examination of the resources reveal statistics that augur well for the future development of the province.
A preliminary survey of the situation shows that the approximate amount of lands to be handed over to this province is 101,000,000 acres.
This figure is arrived at by subtracting from the total land area of the province, the lands alienated which are under dominion administration, together with dominion reserves and reserves of various descriptions.

Total estimated power resources in Alberta are 390,000 horse power under conditions of ordinary minimum flow, or 5,344,500 horse power ordinarily available for six months of the year. At the end of 1928 the total developed water power in the province amounted to 311,925 horse power.

In the matter of fisheries, Alberta will benefit much. In the five year period 1924 to 1928, this province produced fish valued at $596,800.

In this province commercial fishing is confined to regions and waters north of the Saskatchewan river.
Whitefish, trout and pickerel are the leading fish.

Alberta is particularly fortunate in its coal.

There are immense deposits of this fuel, the known reserves being estimated at 1,050,000 million tons. The amount is 14 per cent of the entire world supply, 72 per cent of the British Empire's reserve and 87 per cent of Canada's reserve.

There are also tremendous reserves of natural gas. Annual production of this commodity in this province is now in the neighborhood of 15,000, 000,000 cubic feet, which was the actual for 1928.

Alberta is now the leading province of the dominion in petroleum production, although development for commercial purposes is only a comparatively recent activity.

Several wells have been brought in that produce a very high grade of naphtha, almost pure gasoline.

Pesky Pimples
Painful Boils

Caused By Bad Blood
Boils and pimples are caused by bad blood and there is only one way to get rid of them, and that is to get to the root of the trouble by using a good,

This preparation has been on the market for over 50 years, and is the most reliable remedy for all troubles arising from bad condition of the blood.

It removes all the impurities from the system, and leaves a clear, healthy skin devoid of all eruptions.

Mr. D. J. Fitzsimmons, North Bay, Ont., writes: "For five years I was troubled with boils and pimples and tried everything any one would recommend, but found nothing did me any good."

"One day when I had three boils was cleared away, and I felt twice as good as I ever did."

INVESTS LESS THAN $16 AND NOW HAS $365,000 BUSINESS

Starting with an investment of $15.75 which was supposed to be a hobby, Edward H. Stahl has developed what is said to be the largest rabbit farm in the United States.
He does an annual business of $350, 000,000. His rabbitry is located at Holmes Park, Mo., not far from Kansas City.

The Stahl rabbit farm is not only said to be the largest in the United States, but it supplies breeding stock for a large number of other rabbitries scattered throughout the States and other countries.

Stahl was at one time foreman of a powder mill located near Holmes Park. Business was a little dull, having some spare time on his hands he invested $15.75 in Belgian hares, which he hatched in a borrowed corn crib.

Being a prolific animal the rabbits purchased with the original outlay had produced enough so that there was a surplus on the farm.
Stahl sent $2.50 for an advertisement in a weekly farm paper and got orders for $50 worth of rabbits.
With that experience he soon quit the powder mill and devoted all of his attention to raising rabbits.

Chinchilla is the breed of rabbits in which Stahl specializes. He imported a large number from England a number of years ago and is now recognized as one of the leading authorities in this country on this breed. New Zealand Whites are also popular on his farm.

Practically every rabbit on the place has a hutch to himself until it is ten weeks old, at which time the animal is shipped to another rabbitry or to market. The average number of rabbits on the farm each day of the year is 4,000. As it is necessary to keep them segregated, the entire farm is like a huge lottery cage with hundreds of little apartments.

A total of 52,000 rabbits a year are shipped to other parts of the country for purposes and another 15,000 to 20,000 are sold to be consumed as food.

Stahl contends that something like $50,000,000 a year is spent by Americans for the purchase of rabbit fur, most of which goes to Europe.

ple in general, there seems no reason for anticipating difficulty in future. In fact the board anticipates no trouble.
The fact that the people were willing to invest $60,000 in the hospital and undertake the payment of it, is evi-

MISTAKES
Successful is the man who makes
A ladder of his own mistakes
To greater things, to heights sublime.
By which he may thereafter climb Mistakes are stones with which to pave
The way to goals a heart may crave,
They may, perhaps, be as a fence
An aid to greater confidence.

And he who thus from blunders learns Off wears a crown a victor earns—
A crown more prized, 'tis said, than jade—
From one's mistakes it oft is made.
So when mistakes like clouds arise,
Let not them drag your once blue skies,
But make of them a ladder high
With which again to see the sky.

DEVIL-MAY-CARE

by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

What happened before

SYNOPSIS

At a party in Palm Beach given by Mrs. Oscar Clay, Leeson, an attorney, meets Lucy Harkness, known as Devil-May-Care because of her adventurous, carefree life. In a game in which partners for the evening are chosen, Lucy is won by Tim Stevens, who has a great reputation as a successful heart-breaker. Leeson is a bit jealous. Tim Stevens tells Lucy they are going aboard his yacht the Minerva, and she accedes in order not to be a "quitter." Asked if she is sorry that she won her company, Lucy says she is not and that evidently Fate has arranged it. Tim thereupon tells her to stop looking regretfully after Leeson.

Aboard Stevens' boat, the Minerva, Stevens tells Lucy of his love. When she replies with contempt for him, he grows violently angry and she becomes afraid of him. He says he will never let her go from the Minerva until she accepts him. To escape him, she leaps into the water from her cabin window, swimming a short distance under water.

Lucy reaches land and meets Dr. Ferguson on an island. He takes care of her and takes her home. Everyone is worried about her and when she meets Stevens he is frantic, regretful and still ardent in protestations of love.

Leeson informs Lucy that Stevens must raise a quarter of a million dollars or go to jail—"at five o'clock." Lucy goes to her bank and raises the sum.

Lucy goes to Stevens to help him, but he refuses to take money from a woman to whom he is not married. So Lucy marries this man that she hates, and promptly runs away from him, going to her staunch friend Dr. Ferguson. Faunce told what she has done.

Stevens sets out in search of Lucy. Meanwhile, Dr. Faunce and Lucy launch a new boat. A hurricane wrecks them on their first trip. Lucy is saved, and finds herself aboard the Minerva, wondering what happened to Dr. Faunce.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She felt her throat constrict and was conscious of an almost mastering desire to scream. If Ferguson had not been saved, if he, her mad companion in her mad adventure, had been lost, then life would have no savor, not even a reason for continuance, if she, impelled by motives which even to herself were obscure, had dragged Faunce to his death, then would she be guilty of that death.

She cried out at sight of him, and he leaped from the chair. She leaned against the outer wall of the cabin and laughed. He was so ridiculous in those clothes, obviously borrowed from Stevens' supply. Then she went slightly, but dried her tears as he advanced upon her. She held out her hands to him.

"I wanted to die," she said. "The fear that I'd dragged you to death—" As his hand dropped gently upon hers and imprisoned it, she met his glance.

If she had not known before, she would have been informed now. He loved her with that overmastering love which is given only to middle age. Youth is romantic and desirous, but the middle years bring selfless devotion.

"Don't, Ferguson," she said brokenly. "My dear," he said, "I can't help it. It seems to me that it's always been so, and always will be so. But I'm not going to bother you with it, Lucy."

"Upon my word of dishonor, then, I'll kill him here and now unless you agree."

Dear, I didn't mean you to read it in my eyes. But if you have, and I am glad, because if ever you need anyone—I don't want to be melodramatic, but I'd die for you, Lucy."

"Oh, Ferguson, don't speak of death!" she pleaded. "We've been so close—so near—" Her voice ceased; the hand that rested beneath Faunce's moved uneasily, and then the fingers clenched. Faunce looked up. Stevens had emerged from the pilot-house forward and was now approaching them.

Unwillingly Faunce admitted the great charm of the man. His big body moved cat-like, smoothly, gracefully. He had the knack of wearing clothes well, and his blue-flannel double-breasted jacket became him. The yachting cap could not entirely hide the blond curls, and the tan of his face but made his teeth the whiter as they showed in a smile.

"Better, dear wife of mine?" he inquired.

She felt a taint in the inquiry and her cheeks blazed.

"I suppose I owe you my life?" she queried.

"No need for protestations of gratitude, my dear. The hurricane hit the Minerva and we were hurrying for the lee of Barracuda Island when we saw the waterspout hit your craft. We didn't know who was in your boat but we did the obvious thing. We managed to save you. But for a shock to pick one's bride out of the ocean, clasped in another man's arms, but as one gets older one understands that life is a lurid melodrama when it isn't a savage farce. Sleep well, my dear."

"Say, Faunce, would you mind letting me have a word alone with my wife?"

Faunce flushed at the brusqueness of the request. He glanced at Lucy. "I'm not a bit afraid of him, Ferguson," she said.

Reluctantly the doctor went and waited forward. Stevens leaned toward his wife.

"Where were you going with Faunce?" he demanded.

"I don't all mind telling you," she replied. "We were going to spend last night on Barracuda Island. Then we were going to some Bahama key and stay there."

"Forever?" he sneered.

"Until we became tired of it. Until I'd had time to think."

"Well, you're going to do just that thing," he said. "Only you're going with me, not Faunce."

"Don't be absurd," she advised.

"Absurd? My God! you talk to me of absurdity! Listen, my dear Lucy: you left me, to run away with Faunce. Do you think any jury in the world would convict me of murder if I killed him out of hand?"

"You wouldn't dare," she breathed.

"And why not? You know better. You know that my hands are itching now to toss him overboard. So help me God, upon my word of honor—"

"Your word of honor?" she jeered. "Upon my word of dishonor, then, I'll kill him here and now unless you agree, without further word, to go with me to Barracuda Island, to share the tent I'll erect there, to be mine."

Faintly, far away, her voice sounded, as she made her decision: "I'll go to Barracuda Island with you," she said.

Stevens clasped his hands; a Filipino steward came running.

"Please tell Dr. Faunce I wish to speak to him," said Stevens.

Faunce came at once, no fear, but anxiety upon his face; worry, Lucy knew, for her.

"My wife and I," said Stevens easily, "have composed our differences. And so, Doctor, I'm going to send you to Miami in the Minerva, while she and I continue in a motorboat, the voyage that you and she began. I leave it to your own decision what explanation you may make, if any. It would, of course, sound plausible if you state that your motorboat had been lost in the storm, and that you had been picked up by Mr. and Mrs. Tim Stevens, honeymooning on their cruising house boat, and continuing their honeymoon with a camping-trip a dux on Barracuda Island. An unwitting injury you may have intended doing a man who had never injured you would be balanced by such a story, I think."

He rose abruptly and went forward. They saw him enter the pilot-house where Modane the skipper steered the Minerva. Faunce looked at the girl.

"You—want this?" he asked. She nodded, avoiding his eyes.

"Because, my child, if you don't," he began.

She cut him short:

"Ferguson, he's my husband, and—I'm coming to my senses."

She rose and walked away; already in obedience to orders given by Stevens, the Minerva was being way.

Members of the crew were swinging outward the davits, where was slung a motorboat; stewards were placing supplies in the boat. She entered the pilot-house where Modane stood by the wheel. She held out her hand.

"I want to thank you, Captain, for saving me," she said.

Modane glanced at Stevens.

"Why, ma'am, Mrs. Stevens, ma'am—"

Stevens slapped him on the back. "Attaboy, Modane! Modest as any sailor, my tarry salt of fiction. Well, Mrs. Stevens is eternally grateful to you for leaping into the water after her, and so am I. I'd be a widower but for you, Modane, instead of a bridegroom starting upon his honeymoon."

It was a busy afternoon that followed luncheon. Stevens had no suggestions to make to her, but he accepted her aid. He chopped wood; he cleared the tent, first clearing a space for it back from the beach. He found the spring which trickled in a tiny stream to the sea, and cleaned it out, and sunk in it aluminum containers which held butter and cheese. She washed the dishes, put them in order, stacked the stores beneath a tarpaulin, while Stevens stretched between poles which he chopped and sunk deeply in the sand.

"How—long do you expect to remain here?" she inquired. To save herself she could not keep anxious timidity from her tones.

He shrugged carelessly.

"Oh, I told Modane to drop by in a week or so. If we weren't here I told him to cruise over to the Bahamas and get trace of us there. Why?"

"Oh, I just wondered," she replied. "But why wonder?" he insisted.

"What do you care where we go, so long as my dear, as you're with me?"

Since they had landed his manner and words had been impersonal. Now she felt the jeer behind them. And this was the man who professed to love her, this man who took joy in her spiritual agony. Well, she would not give him the satisfaction of knowing her fear, her horror of him. Instead, she would show her contempt as Paradise itself would be hell if it were present, what difference can it make what we do of where we are?"

"That's more like Devil-May-Care, the high-spirited maiden whom I wooed and won," he mocked her. "Well, let's have some supper."

Once again his manner became impersonal, light-hearted, even gay, and she was angrily humiliated. She took her tone from him. Why should he have any power over her whatsoever, even the power to make her smile or frown?

"Lucy," he broke a long silence, "do you love me?"

"And despise me?" she said.

"Why did you marry me?" he asked.

"I don't know just why," she honestly replied.

"I do," he told her.

"Then why?" she inquired.

"Because as my wife, you could hurt me more than in any other way. And you did. To run away, to humiliate me. Well, despite everything, you are my wife, and I've caught you, and I have you. You can't get away from that, my dear."

"No," she said flatly.

He reclined upon the sand, propping his head with one hand, his elbow digging into the sand, and stared at her.

"You've never guessed how desirable you are, have you, Lucy?"

"Men have asked me to marry them," she retorted.

"But you didn't; you married me. Do you know why?"

"You've just told me why," she said.

"Oh, that! That was the immediate motivating impulse. But behind that, wasn't it fate, Lucy?"

"Perhaps," she admitted.

"And fate, when it brings a man and a woman together, means love, doesn't it, Lucy?" he persisted.

She looked at him coldly.

"Don't be a cad," she said. "Don't try to justify yourself by persuading yourself that, in spite of everything, I'm really in love with you but haven't found it out. Be man enough to do as what you intend without excuse. Love you? I think you are the most contemptible thing that breathes. Are you satisfied?"

"Plenty," he said. "And now, my dear wife, will you please go to the tent and wait for me!"

Well, she had proposed the game, made the rules, interpreted them. And she had given her word, to save Ferguson Faunce from the dreadful anger that could possess this man. She rose obediently, walked to the tent, entered it, and the flap fell behind her.

"Lucy," he called.

Her voice came back to him, clear, unafraid, tinged with contempt.

"Well?"

"I wanted to tell you: you needn't be afraid of me. I don't want you, and never will want you. So far as what you intend without excuse. Love you? I think you are the most contemptible thing that breathes. Are you satisfied?"

She had married Stevens. She had intended to revenge herself upon him by making him a byword for the mean-hearted public to laugh at. She had not comprehended her own motives, but he had made them clear to her in that conversation on Barracuda Island.

Gas Wastage in Alberta

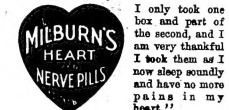

"The U.F.A." exaggerates when it says that in the Turner Valley "there is dissipated every year, in illuminating the night skies, natural wealth nearly equal in value to the average wheat crop in the three prairie provinces." It bases its statement on an estimate credited to Eugene Coste, that the gas wastage amounts to $1,000,000 a day. But a report of a recent address that Mr. Coste delivered in Toronto shows that he put the loss at $100,000. The oil production that had led to the waste yielded, he went on to say, about $12,000 a day and the spectacle was a very sad one. That this is so cannot be denied.

Other available figures indicate that $100,000 is approximately the correct amount and it will grow unless something can be done to curb the loss. The commission that was appointed in June to consider the problem has given it careful and exhaustive study. But not much hope is held out by that body, according to a recent dispatch from Ottawa, that a satisfactory solution can be found. Its final report, has, however, still to be presented.

It is not only in Alberta that this state of affairs has arisen. In "The Nation's Business" there appears an article written by Mark L. Requa, formerly general director of the United States fuel administration's oil division, that is entitled "The World's Worst Waste." He tells of countless millions of dollars' worth of natural gas that has been allowed to go off into the air. Three fields near Los Angeles have supplied enough in two years to have supplied that city for a quarter of a century. Mr. Requa puts the existing waste in California as equivalent to 25,000 tons of coal being bought, paid for, piled up and uselessly burned each day.

Mr. Requa announced that the practice of drilling more wells than are sufficient for the development of a field. Where there should be only one to ten or twenty acres there are, frequently ten or more on a single acre, with the result that both oil and gas are wasted. The article urges the acute need of conservation measures, but admits that it is exceedingly difficult to bring about their adoption.

At the Toronto gathering Mr. McQueen, vice-president of the Imperial Oil Company, agreed with Mr. Coste that the gas wastage in the Turner Valley was lamentable and stated that his organization was ready and willing to co-operate with the government in any adequate remedies that it might devise. Since the first Imperial well there came into big production not a single one, according to Mr. McQueen, had been drilled without every necessary measure being taken to permit of its being shut off and gas being thus conserved. The company, however, "could not be expected to start production of crude oil or gasoline from the wet gas coming from the well in order to save the residue of gas if their neighbor across the fence was permitted to let his well run unimpeded, as that meant the latter was drawing from the Imperial supply as well as his own."

Some means will have to be found to safeguard this great natural resource or future generations will have a very poor opinion of us.—Edmonton Journal.

MAYOR HOWATT

 never before been accomplished, in that he won the championship with Banner oats.

H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, who came down to represent the Department of Agriculture in honoring Mr. and Mrs. Linden, was the next speaker. He said there was no accident in winning at Toronto and Chicago. The winning of Mrs. Linden's exhibit at Chicago was an achievement thousands of grain growers throughout the world would like to have. Mrs. Linden's sample was placed first for some time and the sample was as near perfect as it was possible to have. The winnings of Mr. and Mrs. Linden and Mr. Elbert definitely placed Wetaskiwin on the grain map of the world. He went through Mr. Linden's fields of grain, and realized he was one of the world's greatest grain growers, and in talking with Mr. and Mrs. Linden, you soon realize you are conversing with geniuses. Mr. Linden laid the foundation six or seven years ago when he got seed from the University, and since then he has kept in touch with the Experimental Farms and the Department of Agriculture. The Wetaskiwin district has the opportunity to give leadership to all of Canada, as we have the people and the land capable every year of yielding grain equal to any other district. In spite of the prosperity of oil wells and gas wells, the true wealth of all Western Canada is found up in agriculture, and the local organizations in Wetaskiwin can place agriculture where it should be by giving leadership. Mr. Craig concluded by sincerely extending the congratulations of the people of Alberta to Mr. and Mrs. Linden.

The sample of grain which won the championship at Toronto graced the head table and after the meeting closed, was the object of the greatest interest. The badges won at both Toronto and Chicago were also on exhibition.

The following is a complete report of the work of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade during the past year, as given by the Secretary, Godfrey Baker, at the luncheon on Monday noon:

To the Officers and Members of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade: Your President and Secretary beg to submit the following report of the work done by this Board during the year 1929:

We regret to have to announce that the membership during the past year has dwindled considerably, the membership for 1929 being only 118 as against 191 in 1928. Owing to this fact it was quite impossible for your Board to carry out some of the work that they would like to have done, one piece of work in particular being the production of a suitable booklet illustrating the great advantages to be found in this district and to advertise our wonderful position in Alberta as an agricultural centre.

The efforts of your Board, along with outside influence, did succeed in getting the very dangerous bridge at the Lucas Crossing removed and a very fine structure put in its place. Your Board was also instrumental in getting the necessary protection to the approaches of this new bridge put in as quickly as possible.

A matter of particular interest to farmers has also been undertaken, and that is the standardization of stallions. The agricultural committee of your Board has prepared a suggested amendment to the Stallion Enrollment Act, which, if adopted, would set a minimum weight and certain measurements to stallions. We hope that the Department of Agriculture will see fit to consider this matter very carefully.

The District Exhibit at the Edmonton Exhibition was fairly successful, considering the unfavorable weather conditions which prevailed in this district at that time, this district was awarded the 7th prize.

Your Board is making a determined effort to get the Provincial Government to open a motor road along the east side of Pigeon Lake from the south end to Mulkhurst, also to establish a park for the use of the general public, in the neighborhood of the south end. May we ask that every member use whatever influence he has at every opportunity to help your Board to attain this object.

As you all know the Standing Field Crops Competition sponsored by this Board was an outstanding success, the highest award in the Province coming to this district. The Swine Club, another child of this Board, is also doing good work and making a reputation for this district. The last work undertaken by the Board in 1929 was to organize a Seed Fair. This work has been taken in hand by a special committee from whom we are expecting to hear in the near future.

This report is respectfully submitted for your consideration, and I take pleasure in moving its adoption.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your drug store and get a bottle of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Stopped nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Is Milk Really Necessary?

(By Barbara R. Brooks)

Every once in a while some one raises the question as to whether milk is really necessary to health. Although there are people who object to having rats quoted as evidence for or against a food used for human beings, rats are nevertheless the best criteria available.

The following paragraphs are taken from a nutrition publication: "The question, 'Do children have to drink milk or can other food take its place?' is answered in a new leaflet entitled, 'Must I Drink Milk?' The answer to this question so often asked by parents and children is apparent when young, growing animals fed without milk are contrasted with those having milk.

"One glance at the two rats pictured in the leaflet decides the question. The one rat, generally mischievous in appearance, underfed, and with rough, unkempt coat is a decided contrast to the large, bright-eyed, healthy-looking twin brother rat. The only difference in the diets of the two rats was that one had milk, the other did not.

Bones Give Further Evidence
 "The bones of the milk-fed and non-milk-fed rats are shown as further evidence. The bones of the rat which had plenty of lime are solid, shiny white and well formed. The bones of the rat deprived of calcium are crumbly, dark colored and thin."

Following are some ways of bringing milk into the daily menu:

1. Milk with cereals.
2. Milk in custards.
3. Milk in creamed dishes.
4. Milk in soups.

Caramel Custard
 4 cups scalded milk, 4 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup sugar.

Put sugar in omelet pan, stir constantly over flame until melted to a syrup of light brown color. Add milk gradually, being careful that milk does not bubble up and so over on account of high temperature of sugar. As soon as sugar is melted in milk, add mixture gradually to eggs slightly beaten, add salt and flavoring, then strain into buttered moulds or cups. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.).

Corn Chowder
 2 slices fat salt pork, 1 onion, 3 cups diced boiled potatoes, salt and pepper, 2 cups boiling water, 1 cup cooked corn, fresh or canned, 4 cups hot milk.

Cut the pork into small pieces and fry it out. In this cook the onion. Strain the fat into another receptacle and put the potatoes into the strained fat. Add boiling water, corn which has been cooked till tender, and hot milk. Season with salt and white pepper, bring to the boiling point, and serve with a cracker on each soup plate.

Cream of Onion and Potato Soup
 3 cups scalded milk, 1 cup potato water, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 medium potatoes, 4 onions, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper.

Boil the potatoes and onions together until tender. Drain. Save the water and rub the vegetables through a coarse strainer. Make a white sauce of the liquid, flour and fat and combine with the potato and onion pulp. Season with chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Heat with an egg beater and serve with croutons.

A CHANGE OF THOUGHT

"Brush 'yo' off, sah" asked the porter.
 "Brush me off if you want to, but I'm opposed to tipping!" said the matter-of-fact traveller.

"Well, sah," said the porter, "yo' clothes ain't nearly as dusty as ah thought they was."

ALBERTA'S HEALTH MOST SATISFACTORY

Alberta's health is in a most satisfactory condition, according to Dr. Malcolm R. Bow, deputy minister of health. Statistics compiled showing the amount of sickness as on Saturday last, reveal a condition far above the average for this time of year.

On December 21 there were in Alberta 30 cases of scarlet fever, of which eight were in Calgary, six in Edmonton, and 10 in Lethbridge.

Twenty-three cases of chickenpox are on the records, spread over the province, as well as five cases of smallpox, one of diphtheria, and one of typhoid fever. There are 24 cases of mumps, 14 of which are at Vermilion.

Regarding the recent outbreak of smallpox at Camrose, Dr. Bow said he believed the epidemic had been cleared from the town itself although there still remained some cases in adjacent territory. The department had given instructions to carry out vaccination of school pupils during the Christmas vacation, although this was not necessary to a great extent, as much had been done privately both before and after the epidemic.

Canadian material will be used in its construction with the exception only of materials that are not procurable from Canadian manufacturers. Plans for the design were recently completed for the company by H. B. Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock.

ALIAS JOE AND HIS CHRISTMAS

(By Clara Joyce Hays)

A Northwestern gale swept dry snow around the corner where old Joe sold papers. Shoppers in heavy wraps hurried past, loaded with bundles. Children skipped in anticipatory happiness. Old Joe pulled his worn sack coat about him and fastened it tighter with a piece of wire. His hands, in dirty knitted mittens, were cold. He knocked the backs of them together gingerly and stamped his feet feebly on the icy walk.

"Paper! Evening Journal Paper!" he droned monotonously. Mentally he figured his gain. "Enough for a fifteen cent bed and a sandwich maybe. But tomorrow's being Christmas, nobody'll buy paper. He waited to get enough to buy a little something to his old face took on a foolish and ashamed grin—maybe to make him happy and help him to forget just what an old beggar he was. Then he would not have to eat so much either. A vacation, that's what he was. Never been much like for years.

"Well, hello Santa Claus!" a young man's voice hailed merrily. Old Joe turned. "Paper?" a laughing, well-dressed couple faced him. "Why, Jack!" the girl triumphantly exclaimed.

"How are you, Uncle George?" her irreverent companion continued. Old Joe grinned sheepishly behind his beard. "Wanna paper?" he asked.

"I say, Frank!" the youth exclaimed. "Here's our Christmas!" He drew his father away and whispered. They returned. "Hey! How'd you like to come to our house for Christmas?"

They talked some time before they convinced old Joe that they meant it. Too cold to be proud, he even submitted to the bath and hair-cut that Jack paid for. In a suit too small for Jack's father, Joe came abashed into the kitchen and ate.

"You see, Fran's my sister," explained Jack. "The folks went off on their Christmas spree and left us home. We told 'em we'd do something rare for our celebration."

Jack and Frances had eaten down town. It was late. Joe was given some blankets and put on a cot in the corner of Jack's long room.

In the night Joe awakened suddenly. Painfully he raised and listened. "Hey, you—Uncle George! Gosh! I'm sick!" Jack moaned. Old Joe turned on the light as he was told and called Frances. She yielded. "I can't come! I'm sick. I've been trying to call some time."

The next morning the doctor, on his second call turned to an old man with a neatly trimmed beard and a clean suit. They're all right now, with the nurse here. It was something they had last night."

Jack was better. He smiled faintly. "Well, the joke was on me, wasn't it, Uncle George? You did us a favor by getting the doctor here and, you know, errands in the night. Before you run into the closet there and get my case."

Joe popped rheumatically out of the closet, wide-eyed, staring not a case but an old enlargement. "Wh—Wharr'd ye git this?" he demanded, hands trembling.

"Oh, that's why we call you Uncle George. You see it's a habit we have to—sort of tease (Dad. That is his brother George. He ran away when he was young. Nobody's heard of him since. Dad says he was smart and sure to make his money somewhere. One of these days he says, Uncle George will drive up in a Rolls-Royce with enough hundred dollar bills to paper our house. Dad's actually proud of him. We are, rather, too. But we call you different. Follows 'Uncle George' to make Dad—well, you see—Jack stopped in embarrassment.

Old Joe nodded. "Well, I gotta be goin'!"

"Wait! There's some money in my case. I want to pay you!"

"Naw! Jest come down and buy papers of me if you wanna help. I'm gonna start savin' up t' buy a stand."

Outside Joe's trembling hands opened an almost empty purse and pulled out the small original of the enlargement upstairs. A tear contradicted the sheepish grin. "Well, it's a good thing the feller took to callin' me Joe, lately, 'stead of George," he told himself.

Be sure and reserve Friday night, January 17th, and be at Pinyon's hall at 7:30 sharp, when a company of local entertainers will present for your pleasure, a three act farce-comedy entitled "Safety First," which is being sponsored by the Oddfellows' Lodge of Millet. The company presenting this play have been practicing for some weeks and promise you a real night of laughs and amusing situations, in which the love affairs of married and unmarried couples sail along anything but smoothly. The plot of the play is so composed that all players have opportunity to show their individual abilities as amateur actors, but by the time the play ends, they have smoothed out many misunderstandings and complicated situations and when the final curtain descends, they are again as one happy family. Whatever you do, don't miss it.

Obituary

LILA VAN VOORHIS

A gloom was cast over the community on Tuesday, when it was learned that Lila Van Voorhis, daughter of Mrs. Rubb Van Voorhis of Millet, had passed away at the age of twenty-four years. The cause of her demise was chronic meningitis. She leaves to mourn her untimely loss, her mother, one brother, Ralph, and her grandfather, Mr. Theo. Patton. The funeral takes place on Thursday, services being conducted by Rev. L. R. Macdonald. The interment will take place in the Millet cemetery.

WONGCE U.F.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Wongce U.F.A. will be held in the Wongce schoolhouse on Tuesday evening, January 14th. It is expected that Wm. Irvine, M.P., will be present, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Two actors went for a week-end's fishing. Towards evening, as they were wending their way towards the hotel where they proposed to stay, they made a discovery that neither had any money.

"Oh, never mind," said one, "I'll be all right won't it. They know you at the hotel."

"Yes," said the other in a mournful voice, "that's what's worrying me."

"Every time I kiss you it makes me a better man."

"Well, you don't have to try to get to heaven in one night."

HILLSIDE

The High School students have all returned to their studies after spending the Christmas holidays at their homes here.

Miss Gladys Manders of the C. N. R. telegraph staff, was a visitor in the district over the week-end, taking in the dance on Thursday evening.

Owing to the severe weather, the attendance at the dance last Thursday evening was not very large. Excellent music by a Wetaskiwin orchestra gave those present a most enjoyable evening.

The regular U.F.A. meeting will be held Friday evening in the schoolhouse. Everyone welcome.

The Junior U.F.A. are busy preparing for a big concert to be held some time in February.

A number of Millet young people were present at the dance Thursday evening.

HILLSIDE U.F.A. NEWS

The annual meeting of the Hillside Junior U.F.A. Local was held at the school house on Friday evening, Dec. 27th. The attendance was good, practically every member being present, also a considerable number of visitors. The program committee presented an interim report, covering the next three months, and a further report will be given at the next meeting.

Officers for 1930 were elected as follows:

President—Ronald Hoskins. Vice-President—Whitney Charley. Sec. Treas.—Lily Loader.

The question of sending a delegate to the U.F.A. annual convention was discussed and it was decided to do so if funds permit.

One of the high lights of the meeting was a debate between members of the local on the subject: Resolved "That city life has more advantages than country life." The affirmative was supported by W. Charley, J. Ambrose and Ronald Hoskins, and the negative by Lily Loader, Helen Runtz and Wm. Runtz. The judges awarded the decision to the negative.

The next meeting will be held on January 17th, at the home of Chas. Dowdell.

The next meeting of the U.F.A. Senior Local will be held at the school, Friday, January 10th. The resolutions for the annual convention will be discussed, and all members are urged to attend. Visitors always welcome.

WETASKIWIN IN WORLD'S LARGEST DANCING PARTY

Residents of this city and district will tomorrow (Friday) evening, at the Pal, participate in an international dancing party, with seventeen hundred other communities of the United States and Canada. Dancers will be gliding over waxed floors doing the same steps as persons in ice-bound Alaska—sun-kissed Panama—the Bermudas, the United States and other centres in Canada. These dancing parties are being held under the auspices of the Royal Order of Moose for the benefit of the new $300,000 Boys' Village planned at Moosehart, Illinois—the Child City of the Moose.

The Mission of the Moose Fraternity is a very practical one. Orphans or dependent children of deceased members are taken to Moosehart and given a home, a high school education and instruction in one of nearly forty practical trades. Moosehart knows housing, feeding, clothing and educating upward of fifteen hundred underprivileged children—an undertaking which challenges the respect and admiration of the civilized world. The entire proceeds of this yearly Dance of Wetaskiwin Lodge No. 1559 will be used to meet the Wetaskiwin quota subscribed to the "Boys' Village Building Fund." Support by the public, not only gives furtherance to a good cause, but patrons of the dance are assured a pleasant time, with cards and novelties forming other phases of the function. Mayor Howatt and many other leading citizens are patrons and patronesses for the occasion.

APPRECIATES THE TIMES

Dear Mr. French:

I have enclosed a money order for $2.50 in payment of a year's subscription to The Times. I also wish to express my appreciation of the news from the home district, which The Times brings to us weekly.

California has experienced an unusually dry and sunny fall this year. The rainy season having only recently begun. I have enjoyed my work at the University of California, and I do not regret missing at least one Alberta winter.

In closing, I wish to extend the greetings of the season.

Very truly yours,

EDWIN N. PETERSON.

PRAIRIE AIR MAIL

DATE SET FEB. 3

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Officials of the post office department Tuesday test the date of the inauguration of the Prairie air mail service on February 3.

Indications at present are that the first flight between Winnipeg and Calgary will be made on that date, but it is pointed out that everything depends on the complete installation of beacons over the route. Considerable delay has already been caused through a shortage in the supply of equipment for night flying, and officials see the possibility of a further holdup. The route cannot be opened until the date of lighting equipment is completed as most of the flying will be done at night.

A MORNING THOUGHT

(By Ella Wheeler Wilcox)

Let me today do something that shall take

A little sadness from the world's vast store,

Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.

Let me tonight look back across the span

'Twixt dawn and dark, and to my conscience say—

Because of some good act to boast or man—

"The world is better that I lived today."

HALF MILLION IN ALCOHOL IS SEIZED IN U.S.

Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—Alcohol valued at bootleggers' prices at $500,000 was seized by police Tuesday night in a raid on a two-story building occupied by the Balco Manufacturing company, Memphis and Toga streets.

Breaking in the doors with axes, the raiders found three, five-ton trucks laden with alcohol which they declared were ready for distribution to the bootleg trade. Both storerooms of the building were filled with machinery, stills, vats, coils and cans of alcohol.
